

eMaritime Group offer combined courses for superyachts

Corporate Member of IAIN, eMaritime Group, report that they now offer a range of tailored training packages for the superyacht industry. These packages are discounted bundles of courses, allowing superyacht crew to complete several courses in succession, it is understood.

Courses include ECDIS Generic and HELM (that is Human Element Leadership and Management, either in Management or Operations method) offered at a 20% discount from the standard listed price. These combination courses can be completed at a date which suits the student, and any course combination is possible due to the flexibility of the company's training schedule.

In the words of: Robyn Harrigan, eMaritime Superyacht Lead Manager: 'We know how precious superyacht crew's time is, which is why we have tailored an entire website dedicated to the superyacht industry. As well as our discounted combined courses, we also offer free services including a directory of crew managers and superyacht regulations; all conveniently in one place, saving people time and money.'

Readers requiring more information are invited to visit: www.emaritimegroup.com and select 'superyacht'.