IEEE/IQN PLANS 2020

NOTICE OF CANCELLATION DUE TO COVID-19

After careful consideration, the (US) Institute of Navigation has announcing that the IEEE/IQN Position Location and Navigation Symposium (PLANS) scheduled to take place from 20 to 23 April in Portland, Oregon has been cancelled.

The Institute’s decision to cancel this meeting was based on:

- The World Health Organization has declared Coronavirus (COVID-19) a pandemic.
- The US government has restricted travel into the U.S. from Asia and Europe (United Kingdom excluded).
- The Governor of Oregon has called for all gatherings of over 250 people to be cancelled for the next four weeks.

ION urges those who were planning to attend the meeting to expedite flight and hotel cancellations and contact the hotel directly to cancel your room reservation.

It is understood that IEEE/IQN PLANS 2020 registration and exhibit fees will be fully refunded by 31 March.

ION will communicate directly with scheduled programme participants, registered attendees, and exhibitors.

Should PLANS 2020 be rescheduled, ION will notify those who need to know you once those arrangements have been finalized.

ION has called for patience as it works diligently to address questions and provide additional information.
